Was I right to Stock Up?

The Issue Exploration essay talks about the stock market. The stock market is a public entity for the trading of company stock and derivatives at an agreed price. Stocks of an incorporated business constitute the equity stake of its owners. People invest in this market which basically means that they help fund the company of whose stock they buy. The big question on everyone's mind is whether or not they should invest in this market of uncertainty as the right choice leads to them making profits and earning a lot of money. But this is a two way street where there are also huge losses where people lose everything that they have invested if their company does not perform well. There are a lot of viewpoints where investing is concerned and this is what is looked at in this paper.

The purpose of this paper is not to encourage or discourage people from investing but basically talking about all the different viewpoints and how different people look at this market. There are financial bankers or hedge fund managers that invest for a living. Then there are people who have saved up and decide to invest that money in order to earn something out of it rather than it is sitting in the bank. Also the company's depend a lot on these investments as it provides them with more assets which they then utilize to run the company.

The main difference in the final draft and the first draft vary from including the work citation page to doing more research and finding better points that could help validate each perspective of this topic. These changes helped me convey my viewpoint in a much better manner so that the reader can understand the peer review was interesting as it goes well with this topic of providing different viewpoints. With different people reading this topic it helped me gather more arguments to include as it provided me with different perspectives on the same topic.

This assignment was useful as it helped me understand my major better by giving me a head start into the workings of the finance world. It taught me a lot about the stock market and how different people look at this sea of numbers.

I am generally not that good with words I find it hard to convey my thoughts into words that I can explain on paper but after doing a lot of research it helped me use better terms and convey my research in an unbiased format without swaying the reader from the original purpose of this paper.

In all fairness it was one of my better essays as it involved a month of research and also since it was a topic that was close to my major it made me genuinely interested in writing this paper without the usual procrastination of putting my papers off until the end. I would give this essay an 88% as it could most differently use more work and more research if I had the time. Also since I am just stepping into this world of finance my personal knowledge is still growing steadily.
